Taft's Brewing Co. Brings Back Frisch's Pumpkin Pie Ale Collab Beer... In August

Two local breweries have harvested their seasonal pumpkin brews early this year.

Fall is right around the corner, and two local breweries are ready to welcome the flavors of the season — albeit a tad bit earlier than we may have expected.

Frisch's Big Boy and Taft's Brewing Co. have once again teamed up to bring back their beloved Pumpkin Pie Ale. The seasonal brew featuring notes of cinnamon, ginger, vanilla, and nutmeg, "with a malty profile for a smooth, rich finish," reads a release.

The ale is hitting Greater Cincinnati retailers this week, as well as regional cities including Columbus, Dayton, Lexington, and Louisville. "Taft's and Frisch's are back to brewing for the return of our full-bodied ale celebrating the world-famous taste of Frisch's Pumpkin Pie," said Alison O'Keefe, Frisch's VP of Marketing, in a release.

A local staple dessert during the fall season, Frisch's has been seen selling their secret-recipe pumpkin pie for over half a century. Crafted in small batches in their Walnut Hills kitchen, the Cincinnati-based restaurant chain sells more than a million slices each year.

"We're thrilled to again be partnering with local favorite, Frisch's, on our delicious Pumpkin Pie Ale. These iconic flavors, combined with our hand-crafted beer, makes for a perfect ale as we head into fall," says Dave Kassling, managing partner at Taft's Brewing Co., in the same release.

If one squash-flavored local brew isn't enough for you, you're in luck. Oakley-based MadTree Brewing also recently released their pumpkin ale for the season. The popular Pumpcan spiced ale, which has not shown its festive face to the world since 2018, features "all the pumpkin pie flavors and spice without any actual pumpkin," a Facebook post says, and has a 7.9% ABV.

Fall Arrived Early: MadTree Brewing's Pumpcan Spiced Ale is Back, Baby

The Oakley-based brewery is offering an early taste of what we've all been craving: the approaching autumn season.

If you've been looking forward to crisp autumn nights after this swelteringly thick heat, we have great news for you.

Cincinnati's MadTree Brewing is ushering in the fall season early. That's right, Pumpcan is back, baby.

The Oakley-based brewery announced on their Facebook page on July 30 that they have brought back the beloved brew, which has not shown its festive face to the world since 2018.

The spiced ale features "all the pumpkin pie flavors and spice without any actual pumpkin," the Facebook post says, and has a 7.9% ABV.

The limited series Pumpcan ale is available in six-packs where you typically find your MadTree brews.

Now Open! Little Miami Brewing Company Event Center

Located in Milford, Ohio, Little Miami Brewing Company Event Center is a unique wedding destination. This venue was dreamt up by a pair of brothers-in-law, Dan, and Joe. Their idea was to open a brewery in the bustling and lively city of Cincinnati, and they settled on the riverfront location in Milford and built it brand new! Combining their 50 years of entrepreneurial talents with longtime friend Jim Strelau's skill in craft brewing helped to make this wish become a thriving reality.

Facilities and Capacity Details

Situated beside Little River Miami and Bike Trail, Little Miami Brewing Company Event Center pays homage to the local communities of Cincinnati. It does this through quality brews and bites and inviting the neighborhood in for a jovial gathering. The taproom enjoys a stunning view of the river beyond and boasts a family-friendly environment. Here, guests mingle as they watch a game or sit around a crackling fire pit. The larger of two event rooms, Tecumseh Room, offers space for 400 standing guests and 175-200 seated guests with Dance floor. Its smaller counterpart, The Mill Room, accommodates 179 standing attendees or 72 seated ones. When holding an event at Little Miami Brewing Company Event Center, hosts will have access to the entire venue, separated by 3 glass garage doors and opens up into 1 large room! Cool! This means that the overall ambiance will be pleasantly influenced by brick, wood, and metal finishing. In addition to these structural elements, natural light will be abundant throughout, thanks to the numerous garage doors and windows lining the walls. The patio is also included, offering a relaxed space to sit and enjoy the views of nature beyond. Both ceremonies and receptions can be held on the premises, and external catering is allowed.

Unique Services Offered

As a brewing company, this venue offers premier beverage packages to wedding couples. Optional add-ons, such as wine with dinner, champagne toasts, or a specialty drink bar can be included on request. The base package includes eight in-house beers, four wines, and a liquor. Couples receive all the basics, like chairs, tables, and linens, when booking a wedding at Little Miami Brewing Company Event Center. Other optional additions include tent rentals, custom glasses, corn hole sets, growlers with flowers, seat covers, a dance floor, and several other services.
