Have you ever wanted to know how to get something on your local ballot? We are always looking at the state issues, but often tax increases or other intrusions on liberty are put on your city or county ballot. We will be discussing how to put your own initiatives up for a vote – or at the very least fight the overreach of government through the ballot box. This will be a practical “how-to” session.

We will also teach the skills you will need to apply for local positions and to serve as an effective leader. The training will cover the board/commission application process, what to expect once you are on a board, and the ongoing support we offer to you as you serve your community.

The training is led by Kathleen Chandler, Coordinator of Independence Institute Local Government Project.
