

A First For Listermann Brewing Company!

Listermann Brewing Company to Open New Restaurant Inside Taproom

Friday, August 18, 2023 - Cincinnati, OH

For the first time in the brewery's history, Listermann Brewing Company will be opening its own taproom kitchen. Owners Steve and Terrie Ipson are creating a diverse, high-quality menu reflecting their culinary vision of gastropub fare. The change from having third-party food vendors to now its own kitchen will allow Listermann to gain complete control over its guest experience, an opportunity the Ipson's are excited to leverage to take Listermann into the future.

Since the kitchen opened in 2017, it has hosted three restaurants, most recently, Tickle Pickle. With Tickle Pickle's decision not to renew their lease, Listermann is moving into the kitchen with plans to begin serving patrons by late fall. Tickle Pickle will continue operating inside Listermann's taproom with its full menu until September 8th, after which a limited menu will be available through September until Listermann's kitchen is operational. Terrie Ipson said, "We are grateful to have had a quality food vendor with a loyal following serving our clients. We are now looking forward to the opportunity to provide our customers with a culinary experience that will pair well with our award-winning craft beer and mead."

The brewpub menu will feature small plates including charcuterie boards, baked artichoke asiago gratin with grilled pita and pretzels and Listermann Hop Head beer cheese complimented by a vast selection of salads, sandwiches, mac 'n cheeses, and flatbread pizzas. "Our menu items have been carefully curated to offer something for every palate," said Terrie.

Listermann will offer attendees a taste of the new menu during the brewery's 15th Anniversary Party on Saturday, September 9th. A selection of the new menu items will be available for purchase throughout the day, along with four new, unique anniversary beers and two barrel-aged meads.

As its first summer at Newport on the Levee comes to a close, 16 Lots Southern Outpost is throwing a big, two-day, end-of-summer bash, complete with mimosas, fireworks and the Levee's first-ever Pride event. The brewery's Labor Day weekend party kicks off Saturday, Sept. 2 with a drag brunch, featuring some of Cincinnati's most beloved performers, along with 16 Lot's brunch fare, mimosas and Bloody Mary bar.

"We're excited to bring this show not only to our own stage, but to the Levee as a whole," Mike Burton, 16 Lots founder and co-owner, said in a press release. "I'm really proud that our brewery will be the first establishment in the complex to take this inclusive, community-building step ... the first of many to come."

The show starts at noon and tickets are \$18, plus tax and fees, but attendees can arrive for brunch as early as 10 a.m.

And on Sunday, Sept. 3, the party continues with a Western & Southern/WEBN Fireworks watch party.

"I watched the fireworks from our deck here last year, when we were getting ready to build out the brewery and renovate the bar and restaurant ... that barge they launch from is right in front of us on the river," Del Hall, 16 Lots co-owner and chief commercial officer, said in the release. "The view from here is simply the best there is, period. And with the amazing food, parking discount and live band we've got lined up, why would you go anywhere else?"

The party Sunday starts at 4 p.m. and the all-inclusive ticket guarantees you a spot to watch the fireworks, as well as all-you-can-eat fare, including a raw bar, carving station, appetizers and more and discounted parking. Following the fireworks, funk-soul-rock ensemble Dat Band will take the stage for a two-and-a-half-hour show. Tickets for the watch party are $199 and can be bought here.
