Shademakers Garden Center will be on site with various plants and other plant-loving items available for purchase! Then we're going to continue to use the stage for a "plant moms and dad jokes" (or plant dads and mom jokes). For the plant swap people are encouraged to bring clippings, seeds, starters etc. give one/take one. Representatives from Shademakers will be there to help educate and sell some of their garden items. Noon-5. After that we encourage people to get on stage and do two minutes of their best dad joke material.

This year, guests can use the guide to easily locate their favorite brews or try out new ones. We guarantee there’s a brew for every taste!” Chelsea York, Cincinnati Chamber’s vice president of events and experiences, said in a press release.

Samuel Adams is Oktoberfest’s presenting sponsor and will offer its Oktoberfest beer at several booths throughout the festival, as well as in the Samuel Adams Beer Garden. Traditional German breweries, including Krombacher, Radeberger and Weihenstephan, will serve traditional beers.

Sixteen Greater Cincinnati breweries will also be present, including:
